When you're trying to find treatments for Tourette Syndrome

Every day is the most important day

That's our motto here at Abide Therapeutics. We're a small biopharmaceutical company with big goals, and we believe targeting a class of enzymes called serine hydrolases could be the future of treating CNS conditions. Just last month we started a Phase 2 clinical trial of our most advanced drug candidate, called ABX-1431. It's a monoacylglycerol lipase (MGLL) inhibitor that we think will help rebalance the nervous systems of people living with CNS conditions like Tourette Syndrome.
